		Tuesday, February 3 I have just got my horse and sleigh home and commenced to travel again but the roads are so full of snow that I have to travel through fields to accomplish my Enumeration districts and while I am traveling through the snow drifts my mind has been drawn out upon our legislators not in the way of finding fault but have been thinking that they acted upon the very principle that make the rich richer and the poor keep them so when they when they passed a law to give the Clerk of Peace fifteen Shillings a hundred for copying the names of the jurors in a book in his own office and give the Enumerator only ten Shillings for the same for every hundred when he has to travel all over the country through snow and storm and take all other statistics beside the names of the jurors with finding fault that the Enumerator does not get enough but that the Clerk of the Peace gets too much according to the labour performed
